

KNOX DEMANDS GOVERNMENTAL POWER TO "DRAFT LABOR" TO KEEP MEN AND WOMEN ON WAR WORK JOBS

Production of Some Vital Weapons and Equipment, Including Destroyers and Light Cruisers, is Behind Schedule, Says Secretary of Navy—Appears Before Senate Military Affairs Committee.

By William S. Neal
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Mar. 2.—(INS) Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox told Congress today that production of some vital weapons and equipment, including destroyers and light cruisers, is behind schedule and demanded governmental power to "draft labor" to keep men and women on the job in the most critical period of the war.

Appearing before the Senate Military Affairs Committee, Knox declared that national service legislation is needed despite a miracle in production performed by American labor and management.

Warning that "In 1944 we will be fighting mightier battles with heavier losses in every quarter of the world" Knox summed up his diagnosis of the manpower problem as follows:

"If we could put into a simple statement our manpower problem as it now is, it might be comprehended in this single sentence: 'If the people, who are not fully employed, would go to work where they are needed, and if everyone would stay on the job, we would have no manpower problem.'"

"And that is precisely just another way of saying that our manpower problem has, all along, been especially hard to solve because of excessive switching from job to job."

Referring to the lag in naval production, he listed among the problems:

Production of destroyers and light cruisers delayed at Federal Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Co., Kearney, N. J., because of shortage of 3,000 workers. The company has hired over 8,100 persons, but lost close to 11,000, in five months.

Employment at another Federal Yard at Port Newark, N. J., fell from 19,000 in August, 1943, to 17,500 in January, 1944.

Important Eastern Plant making vital electronic equipment is running behind on orders because of lack of workers.

Many Navy contractors in northwest Pacific area are unable to utilize facilities fully because of lack of employees.

Three Middle West plants, producing forged products for ships and aircraft, have lost workers in the last six months.

Even where production has been maintained, Knox said, the turnover of workers has been so high that efficiency has been impaired. West coast aircraft plants had to hire 155,000 men in first six months of 1943 in order to make a net gain of 4,000. Knox also revealed the Boeing Corporation, making Flying Fortresses, had to employ 75,500 workers from July 1, 1941 to June 30, 1943 to maintain continuous employment of 3,000.

Doylestown Sells Bonds Worth $20,400 at Dance

DOYLESTOWN, Mar. 2.—Doylestown topped off an "over-the-top" War Bond quota here Tuesday night with a $20,400 War Bond dance in the Doylestown Armory. It cost a bond to get in and 50¢ bonds were sold, helping to put Bucks county considerably over the top with its $5,455,000 quota.

Among the guests of honor were the veteran "Diamond of Diamonds," Connie Mack, and his scout, Ira Thomas, who earlier in the evening addressed a dinner meeting of the Kiwanis clubs of Doylestown, Lambertville, N. J., and New Hope.

Mrs. George A. Kimbel Dies at Abington Hospital

CROYDON, Mar. 2.—Ill for about one week, Mrs. Agnes Kimbel, wife of George A. Kimbel, died at the Abington Hospital on Tuesday. She was in her 60th year.

In addition to her husband, Mrs. Kimbel is survived by a son, Robert Coles, of Bristol; and seven grandchildren. The deceased was born in Philadelphia, but had made her home here for about 20 years.

The rites will be held from the home of Mr. Coles, 225 Cleveland street, Bristol, on Saturday at eight a. m. Requiem Mass will be said in St. Thomas Aquinas Church, at nine o'clock, and interment in St. Mark's Cemetery will be in charge of the W. I. Murphy Estate, funeral directors.

Pearl Buck Not To Be Candidate for Congress

DOYLESTOWN, Mar. 2.—Mentioned as a possible Democratic candidate for Congress in the Bucks-Lehigh district, Pearl Buck, of Hilltown Township, famous author of "The Good Earth" and other best sellers, today notified Mrs. Harriet Hancock, of Doylestown Township, State Committee-woman, that she would not consider it.

Mrs. Buck, who is Mrs. Jean Walsh, wife of Richard J. Walsh, New York publisher, informed Mrs. Hancock that she would like to serve her fellow Bucks and Lehigh counties in Congress but that she was of the opinion that she could be of more valuable service otherwise.

Mrs. Buck and her husband are registered as "non-partisans."

WAREHOUSE DESTROYED TODAY AT EDDINGTON

Blaze Breaks Out for Second Time During Night; Smoke Intense

AT PUBLICKER SITE

EDDINGTON, Mar. 2.—A warehouse on the property of the Publiker Commercial Alcohol Corp. here, which caught fire last evening at 7:45, became ignited for the second time this morning at 4:45 and subsequently burned to the ground, its contents also being destroyed.

The warehouse, measuring 30x40 feet, was used for storage purposes by Stone & Webster, contractors on the premises. In the wooden structure were stored quantities of tar paper; and also asbestos, the latter of the type used in covering hot water pipes and boilers.

Cornwells Fire Co. No. 1 and Union Fire Co. were summoned on both occasions.

When called early this morning firemen made a strong effort to save the building, using water from their tanks, then attaching hose to a plug on the place.

Great billows of smoke emanated from the building as the tar paper burned, and firemen were somewhat hampered by this. They remained on the scene until a late hour this morning.

The building is located on the west-side of State Road, about 400 yards from that thoroughfare.

HULMEVILLE

Named as captain for Hulmeville borough in the Red Cross war fund drive is Mrs. Hugh B. Webster. Workers in this community who will aid in the house-to-house canvass are: Mrs. Frank Binder, Mrs. Clarence Dunlap, Mrs. Roger Burns, Mrs. Lewis Brunner, Miss Clara L. Illick, Mrs. Harold Dassenburg. The drive opened yesterday, and the captain and workers request that all residents be prepared to donate to this worthy cause when workers call at their homes.

Mr. and Mrs. William Wheeler spent the week-end in West Philadelphia as guests of Mrs. Wheeler's sister, Mrs. William Wetman.

Mrs. Herman Thomsen, of Langhorne, a former resident of Main street, this borough, is a patient in Abington Hospital where she underwent an operation on Monday.

HORACE WALKER WRITES ABOUT WORK RED CROSS IS DOING FOR THE MEN AT THE BASE WHERE HE IS LOCATED

The Red Cross solicitation for the War Fund is now going at top speed. Solicitors are urged to cover their districts at once and to make a very thorough canvass. It is reasoned that every resident will want to contribute because it is the one way in which they can give money that will be used directly to aid the men on the fighting fronts or their folk at home.

Not only one contributor from a house should be listed but every occupant of every house is asked to donate. So if a solicitor calls at your house and if you are already displaying a Red Cross sign do not be offended, because the solicitor has been given your name.

With men going into the service from this immediate area today and yesterday, brings home the fact that this money is vitally needed by the Red Cross to help them.

A letter written by Horace "Jake" Walker, S. 2/c, from his base reads: "Since arriving here we were issued American Red Cross knitted articles consisting of a sweater, gloves, scarf and watch caps. They are all appreciated indeed. Now I realize the importance of our volunteers more than ever."

Then addressing Mrs. Holland of the Red Cross, Walker asks: "How is everyone back there? Are you still rushing around the countryside as ever trying to settle numerous problems and helping our service men and their families? I want to extend my congratulations to you and the Red Cross for the fine work being done."

Walker, a young married man, volunteered in the Navy. He was a first aid instructor during the time that first aid classes were being held here. He was employed at the Paterson Parchment Paper Company.

An American Red Cross peace-time program of water safety adapted to wartime needs has gained the status of an "essential" element of military training, according to Under-Secretary of War Robert Patterson.

This program, called "Functional Swimming" by the Red Cross, has picked up the name of combat swimming, perhaps because, with its emphasis on self-preservation, it also stresses those command-like abilities that enable the land fighter to be efficient when he must swim.

A former hosiery worker employed in mills at Dublin and Chalfont, Cpl. Detweiler was inducted into the army at Allentown in July, 1942, and saw action in Africa, Sicily and Tunisia.

The young man, who was scheduled to be promoted to the rank of captain, was graduated from the West Coast Training Center of the Army Air Force at Luke Field, Ariz. Following his graduation from Hattboro high school in 1941, Lt. Flack for some time was employed in the plant of the Brewster Aeronautical Corp., Johnsville.

Lt. Marty Green, C. A. P., has been given the assignment of organizing a flight in this area.

Anyone between 16 and 18 years is eligible to join. The requirements are that they desire to fly, that they be in good health, a citizen of the United States, and have parents' consent.

The subjects taught will be military courtesy and discipline, radio code, infantry drill, simple navigation, and actual air orientation. This means cadets will be given short hops in army or C. A. P. airplanes, by C. A. P. pilots, at the new C. A. P. field in Somerton, for

4-Motored Fortresses and Liberators Bomb Germany

London—Four-motored American Fortresses and Liberators roared over southwestern Germany today to spearhead a two-pronged daylight onslaught which followed a 600-plane night RAF raid on Stuttgart in which British losses were the lightest yet suffered in a major attack.

The huge American daylight precision bombers were protected by United States, British, Dominion and Allied fighter squadrons as they struck at unspecified targets in the Reich.

Medium bombers hammered at the invasion coast of northern France. American Raiders were observed in many of the flights, flying under RAF fighter screens. Observers in the Folkstone section described the activity as "ceaseless."

Strong formations of British bombers blasted Stuttgart, home of chemical, financial and manufacturing facilities, in the fifth major attack of the war on that city. Although it was believed the bomb tonnage loosed on the city totaled between 1,650 and 2,240 tons, only four aircraft failed to return.

A few hours after the big formations settled down at their bases, massive waves of heavy bombers—presumably American—swept out over the English Channel. Simultaneously, American headquarters announced that medium bombers of the recently transferred Ninth Air Force blasted military installations in northern France by daylight.

FATALLY STRICKEN AT WHEEL OF AUTO

J. Harry Clunn, Eddington, Dies En Route To His Employment

EDDINGTON, Mar. 2.—Stricken ill as he drove his automobile along Street Road early this morning, J. Harry Clunn, of this community, was found dead at the wheel a few minutes later.

Mr. Clunn was travelling west on Street Road to his employment at the Hattboro Foundry at about 7:50. It is believed that he felt ill as he turned off the ignition switch. When found in the car which had run into an embankment on the right of the thoroughfare, life was extinct.

A driver of a motor freight truck, and operators of passenger cars halted when they saw the car off the roadway, and the inert driver at the wheel. William F. Mende, who resides nearby, was also attracted to the scene, and when he found that the driver was apparently dead, Mende returned home to telephone Pennsylvania State Police at South Langhorne barracks. Officers summoned Bucks County Coroner J. Alfred Rigby, who also investigated.

Mr. Clunn's car was not damaged. He had resided in Eddington for many years.

LENT FILLS SPECIAL NEED FOR CHRISTIAN

Is Commemoration of Fast-ing, Temptations, Death of Jesus

CLERGYMAN'S SERMON

In considering the meaning of Lent and the special needs of Christians filled during this season, the Rev. Henry Cunningham, pastor of Bensalem Presbyterian Church, writes on the "Challenge of Lent."

The message follows:

The blessed season of Lent is here again! Once more the question arises, "What will it mean to us?" First of all we should remember that Lent is a commemoration of the fasting, temptation, sorrows and death of Jesus our Saviour. So it should be a special period of spiritual contemplation that will bring us nearer to Christ and deepen our interest in spiritual life and service.

The record shows that there are many people who neglect church services on Sunday. Certainly, the present war situation in which the nation is should lead us to fill our churches to overflowing. The prophet Daniel (1:35) reminds us, "The Lord doeth according to His will in the army of heaven, and among the inhabitants of the earth; and none can stay His hand, or say unto Him, What dost Thou?"

Lent is a period of the year in which Christ and His Gospel may have to an unusual degree, first place, and when the church was in an especial manner "claim our attention."

The season of Lent should bring to all of us new standards by which to measure up to the ideals that our faith in Christ presents to us.

It is a time when the great virtues of our Christianity should be emphasized in the face of the gross immorality, infidelity, intemperance and other sins that are so prevalent today.

When we "survey the wondrous cross on which the Prince of Glory died," surely all self-sufficiency and pride are taken from us, knowing that it was our sin which put Christ on the Cross. There He made possible our forgiveness and our salvation.

"Christ died for sins according to the Scriptures" (I. Corinthians 15:3).

"Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved" (Acts 16:31).

Suggestions for Lent

Be present as far as possible at every service of the church.

Read the Bible daily and think upon it.

Pray often and be sure it is not a mere form.

Deny yourself some luxury and give its value as an Easter offering to your church.

Let self-examination be a daily duty, and seek to grow in grace.

Make your Lent positive, not merely negative. Do some Christian service, especially endeavor to bring some one to Christ.

CHILDREN BID NAVY DADS GOODBYE HERE

Girls and Boys Assemble at Railroad Station to See Selectees Off

2 BROTHERS IN GROUP

Thirty-six young men who boarded a train here this morning to commence training in the navy, were joined in Philadelphia by a group who are under the jurisdiction of the Local Selective Service Board, No. 1.

This was the first time that a number of selectees leaving had children present to bid them farewell, as the contingent this morning is the first group of pre-Pearl Harbor fathers to be called locally. A few pre-Pearl Harbor fathers have gone with previous groups, but in small numbers, due to the fact they volunteered to enter before formally being called, or for other definite reasons.

Two brothers were in the group, William and Joseph Keller. "25 for Victory" distributed gifts to the men.

Solicitors ask co-operation of Croydon residents to help Croydon go "over the top to aid the organization which helps the boys in the service."

BOY "GANG" BROKEN IN NEWTOWN SECTION

Said To Have Stolen Automobiles; State Police on Case

CHARGES ARE LODGED

NEWTOWN, Mar. 2.—A "boy gang" in this section has been successfully broken up by officers of the Pennsylvania State Police, South Langhorne barracks.

The gang, it is stated, had been stealing automobiles, robbing and burglarizing for the past three months. Most of the offenders are juveniles.

At least a dozen boys are being rounded up by the State troopers. On Monday night, Edward Dooley, 18, of 13 Sterling street, Newtown, was arrested and given a hearing before Justice of the Peace Horace A. Cooper, Langhorne, and charged with burglary and operating an automobile without the owner's consent. He was committed to the Bucks County Prison.

At the same time, Walter Bell, 16, a juvenile, charged with the same offense—burglary and operating an automobile without the owner's consent—was committed to the detention room at the County Prison.

Members of the gang are said to have stolen cars in Newtown and Langhorne and along the highways between the two boroughs. They would steal a car, it is said, drive it until the gasoline supply was used, abandon it, and steal another car. They stole car stickers and various other items, police allege.

The burglary charged against Dooley, who is described as "the gang's leader," took place at the home of George Smith, Newtown, where $20 in cash was stolen from a small bank.

Other members of the "gang" are being rounded up and taken to the State Police sub-station at South Langhorne for questioning.

18 Names Are Listed On Honor Roll at Church

ANDALUSIA, Mar. 2.—On Sunday morning, an American flag, a service flag, also an honor roll were dedicated and blessed in Christ Episcopal Church.

The American flag was carried to the altar by 1st Lt. James Cunningham, and the service flag by Cub Albert Geiges. Andalusia Boy Scouts and Cubs formed a guard of honor through which the two flags were carried.

Eighteen names are on the honor roll: Howard Leversidge, Albert Fleming, Lawrence Freas, Edward Nelson, William Jackson, William Wright, Neil Julliff, John Ferguson, Jr., Ross Merle Parker, Jr., Howard Pickersgill, Thomas Macdarey, Lester Richardson, Wayne Vandergrist, Lester Engle, Louis Tomlinson, Elmer Geiges, James Cunningham and Edward Barnhill.

The services were in charge of the Rev. Arthur F. Gibson and A. Bratton.

Frank Craven Has Party On His First Anniversary

EMILIE, Mar. 2.—Mrs. Leslie Craven gave a party on Saturday afternoon in honor of her son Frank's first birthday anniversary. The table was decorated with pink and blue streamers, and Mother Goose favors.

Cake and ice cream were served. The children received prizes for various games.

Those attending: Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hall and children, Marian and Howard, Hartsville; Mrs. Maude Lyman, Trenton, N. J.; Mrs. Leslie Stradling, and "Bobby" and "Toddy" Plesger, Fallsington; Mrs. Catherine Simons, Edgely; Mrs. James Booz, Mrs. Horace Booz and children "Jimmy" and Arlene, Mrs. Nelson Simon and daughters Alice Mae and Ruth Ann, Charlotte Booz, Miss Alice Mae Lyman, Trenton, N. J.

NORRISTOWN.—(INS)—Youthful members of a self-styled "crooks association" shocked Norristown when they admitted they stole automobiles and trucks for the pleasure of watching them dive over a quarry cliff into 65 feet of water. The youths, who came from respectable families, ranged in age from 14 to 15.

YOUTH CENTER IN BENSALEM PROVES VERY POPULAR

275 Register on Opening Night at King Hall, Andalusia

INAUGURAL PROGRAM

To Be Open Two Nights Weekly for Youths Aged 12 to 18 Years

ANDALUSIA, Mar. 2.—So popular did the Youth Center prove on its opening night at King Hall last evening that scores were waiting for the doors to open 15 minutes before the appointed time, and by eight o'clock 275 had registered.

The Youth Center, which is to be open each Wednesday and Friday evening in King Hall for young folks aged 12 to 18, is being sponsored by the Parent-Teacher Association of Cornwells Heights. Officers of this organization include C. Burnley White, president; Miss Cecelia Snyder, vice-president; Miss Claire Withers, secretary; and Mrs. Elmer Yorty, treasurer.

Chaperones and officials were added in activities at the center on this opening night by a number of the young folks, and enthusiasm on the part of the workers and of those entertained was widespread.

By 7:15 many young folks were waiting for the doors to open, and at 7:30 they thronged the building. They were checked in under the direction of Miss Claire Withers, who being assisted by two students: Rita Vincent, Alice Jean Spierling. Another student assistant, who was unable to be present is Mathilda Lind. At the game counter they next signed for table games, Jack Kidd and James deGour being in charge. Those desiring active games, such as pool, shuffle-board, ping-pong, darts, etc., were referred to chaperones in the basement.

At eight o'clock an inaugural program for the center was presented, with Mr. White in charge. The Rev. Arthur F. Gibson offered prayer; a solo, "Bless This House," was given by Mrs. Otto Grupp, accompanied by Miss Dorothea Wenner; then members of the vestry of the Church of the Redeemer were introduced, including: the Rev. Mr. Gibson, chairman, Dewey Halderman, Harry Oliver, James Cunningham, Fred Julliff, Watson Wright, Thomas Gardner and Norman Fries. The P. T. A. organization committee for the Youth Center was also introduced by Mr. White, the committee being inclusive of: Melvin Mack, chairman; Miss Withers, Mrs. Anna Harrison, Mrs. Merlin Vitt, Phillip G. Mack and Axel Kleinsorg.

A solo, "God Bless America," by Elmer B. Vansant, was joined at chorus time by the young folks; and then all sang "America."

The popular canteen opened at nine o'clock with Mrs. Harrison in charge. Students aiding are: James Fankhauser, William Davis, Stanley Zarnock, John Ferguson, "Betty" Funk, Jane Winchester, Robert Bender, Victoria Blackburn.

Some of the girls and boys took advantage of the library reading facilities, and others studied in the library, those in charge there being the Rev. Mr. Gibson, Harry Oliver and Watson Wright.

Dancing will be arranged after the Lenten season, it is announced.

Chaperones for the evening included the following: Mrs. Harrison, Miss Withers, Mrs. N. L. Vincent, Miss George Spierling, Melvin Mack, P. G. Mack, Elmer B. Vansant and Fred Julliff. A corsage was presented to each of the women chaperones during the evening.

A large number of games had been purchased and these the young folks thoroughly enjoyed.

It is stated that over 300 have signed for membership to date.

NORRISTOWN.—Two convicts blamed the inferior quality of pipes used by Gratersford Prison, near Norristown, for ruining their attempted escape. The pipes, which they used for ladders, collapsed when they neared the top of the prison wall.

PRE-INVASION BLOWS

The tempo of Allied aerial attack on key defense and production points in the Nazis' European stronghold is being stepped up so consistently that one day's record raid may be surpassed by another onslaught on the next.
Hence general evaluation of the extent of the damage wrought
can only be as of the moment.

Allied bombing forces, composed of as many as 2,000 planes, have made devastating inroads on Hitler's fighter plane plants deep in Germany. Gen. H. H. Arnold
commanding general of the U. S.
Fortresses and Liberators knocked out 25 per cent of enemy fighter plane production, and added that this estimate was conservative.

Coupled with the recent announcement that, as of November, American raiders had knocked out 43 per cent of German fighter building capacity, current and projected, the latest claim of damages indicates tremendous inroads on the German war plant.
At such a cumulative stage of destruction of Germany's aircraft building capacity, the actual damage incurred begins to defy computation. Complex and interwoven as is Germany's war production potential, spot damage
must have widespread, costly repercussions, suspending related manufactures. Then there is the disruption of supply and delivery schedules, both at source and in transit, as well as the loss in manpower for fire fighting, wreckage clearance and repair, and the spread of general demoralization.

Conceivably, the aerial campaign might prove decisive if prolonged indefinitely, but, considered as a phase of invasion by itself,
and as serving to frustrate much of Nazi resistance to successive phases of invasion, its implications loom ominously for the Germans. They are an impressively resourceful foe, but even desperation has its limitations as a secret weapon.

RECLAMATION JOB

It is apparent that, for time indefinite after victory—the business of war will continue to figure largely in the business of peace,
just as incalculable destruction
will necessitate calculated reconstruction.

A glimpse of this is seen in the warning by Capt. J. H. F. Crombie, director of mine-sweeping in the British Admiralty, that it will take much longer than a year after the war to clear the seas of mines.
"When one considers that several sweepers have accounted for nearly 150 mines each," said Captain Crombie, "one realizes the scale of the enemy's mining effort."

Pointing out that modern mine-sweeping is a highly technical art, aside from its many-sided collateral wartime duties,
he recalled the comparatively simple situation at the end of the last war when mine clearance commitments were fairly, as the position of the mine fields laid by all the belligerents was known. In this war many mines have been laid and jettisoned by aircraft and E-boats in unknown positions.

is no more arduous than in an efficiently-managed business. No WAVE candidate, however, should

Questions, Answers
About the WAVES

Do all WAVES begin as apprentice seamen?

Yes, even officer candidates.
However, after the indoctrination
and training period there are automatic promotions. Higher ratings thereafter depend on ability and length of service.

How do qualifications for WAVE
officers differ from those for enlisted personnel?

A college degree, or two years
of college work plus acceptable
business or professional experience, is required. Eye and teeth standards are slightly higher. Women up to 30 years of age are eligible.

Knox Seeks Governmental Power To "Draft Labor"

"It is apparent that the present program for selective and controlled employment needs immediate tightening up," he said. "We cannot even pretend to be supporting our fighting men who are risking their lives at the front so long as we tolerate either milling around from job to job or a reluctance to move to the places needed,"
he said.

Knox said Army induction of labor is not the chief cause of the high turn-over. Among reasons given by workers for quitting jobs,
he said, were: "dislikes work," "going out of state," "promised wages
not received," "too far to travel,"
"can't get along with foreman."

"Of course none of these reasons
is valid in war," said Knox. "What would you think of a machine gunner or tank operator, who wanted to quit his job because a promotion had not come through, or because he couldn't get along with his sergeant, or because he didn't want to work at night, or because he could get higher pay in the Air Corps than in the tank corps, or because he thought the war was almost over, or because he was anxious about his job in the future?"

Knox answered the argument that a labor draft would compel a man to work to make profits for others. First, he said, the Navy yards need workers and they are government-owned.

CHAPTER TWENTY-FOUR

There had been much progress,
starting with the discovery of that was cylinder in McKibben's safe: A woman, hoarse with emotion . . .
terrified because her child was growing to look more like its real father
every day . . .

Blackmail, of course, had been McKibben's game, but where had he obtained the cylinder, and what voice was recorded there? A defective voice—a cultured voice.
Tony was certain he would recognize it.

But to whom had the woman been talking? To whom would any woman tell a thing like that? . . .
Somebody with a dictograph, who had turned it on and recorded the confession. What a beastly trick!

It was not really a confession. It was an appeal for help. The appeal of a patient to her physician. A patient in deadly torment. Mental torment.

Again there was the glimmer of an idea at the back of his head . . .
And then it came! The woman had been talking to a psychiatrist.
Dr. Jerome Metcalf was a psychiatrist. Also, he was a friend and neighbor of Jack McKibben.

Tony's eyes were open now. He was sitting bolt upright, with a faint tingling shooting along his spine.

Could it be that he had found the answer?

Could it be that Metcalf had a dictograph attached to his desk? That he recorded his patients' confessions? That he and McKibben had been working together?

Of course. That was it. That explained everything.

He lay back in the tub again with a sigh of satisfaction.

One thing was certain—he must see Metcalf . . .

Just as he was getting into his bathrobe, Clarence tapped at the door. "Is got youh pahty, sub," he said.

Soon Tony was talking to Professor Babcock. He briefly described the situation, told him of the police order postponing the funeral. "I'll let you know as soon as things are straightened out up here," said
Tony, and hung up.

He had dinner at the Colony, and then started on his tour of duty. An hour later, at Lindy's, he ran into Herschel Schneider, just saying goodbye to a man and two women who evidently had been his dinner guests. Schneider was always good for a paragraph, provided he had time to talk, so Tony lingered at the table until he came back from taking his guests to the door.

"Got a few minutes, Herschel?"
he asked.

"Of course; sit down," said
Schneider dropped wearily into a chair. "I'm tired," he went on.
"Been working too hard."

"Another tough case on?"

"It isn't that," and the lawyer passed his hand over his face. "Getting old, I guess.

KNOW YOUR STATE

The General Assembly, which is the legislative branch of the government of the Commonwealth, consists of two bodies, the Senate and the House of Representatives. The members are elected by the citizens, Senators for a term of four years and Representatives for a term of two years. The number of lawmakers in each body is controlled by a formula set forth in the Constitution of Pennsylvania. The House of Representatives is the larger of the two bodies, having approximately four times as many members as the Senate.

For the purpose of choosing State Senators, the State is divided into fifty Senatorial Districts and each district is entitled to elect one Senator. These districts are determined by the General Assembly and represent areas of compact and contiguous territory as nearly equal in population as possible. As a guide for the establishment of the districts, a population unit, or as the State Constitution phrases it—"a Senatorial ratio"—is ascertained by dividing the population of the State by fifty. Each county containing one or more units of population may elect a Senator for each unit and an additional Senator if the surplus of population exceeds three-fifths of a unit.

The General Assembly, in accordance with the Constitution, establishes Representative Districts from each of which a Representative is elected. The rule for apportioning the State into Representative Districts is similar in principle to that used for ascertaining Senatorial Districts but differs as to number since it is done on a county basis and by using a smaller unit of population. This unit is determined by dividing the State's population by two hundred, but irrespective of size, each county is permitted to elect at least one Representative. Other rules provide that counties shall have one Representative for each unit of population and an additional Representative if the surplus exceeds half a unit.

The time for the re-allocation of Senatorial and Representative Districts occurs at the first session of General Assembly immediately after each U. S. decennial census, and the basis for determining these districts tends to perpetuate the democratic principles upon which our government is founded.

THOROUGHLY CLEAN PRESSURE COOKER BEFORE STORING IT

By Mary E. Jacoby
(Home Economics Representative)

Before putting away the pressure cooker see that it is clean and in tip-top shape.

Sometimes a cooker may give food a metallic taste, or odors from strong flavored foods may cling to the cooker for a long time after cooking. The best remedy for this off-odor is to put three or four inches of water in the cooker, put in the racks or pans, and add a big handful of potato peels. Adjust the cover, bring the pressure to 15 pounds, keep at this point for 15 minutes, then remove the cooker from the stove. Let the pressure return to zero, open the petcock, and remove the cover. Wash the kettle and pans or racks in hot soapy water. Rinse and dry well.

A cooker must be spotless for salt or food left on it may pit the aluminum or injure the glaze on enamel or cause tinned steel to rust.

If the cooker is stained, rub it with whitening moistened with water. Take off the petcock and safety valve and soak in vinegar. If the safety valve is the ball-and-socket type, clean it with silver polish. Scrub the rubber gasket well to remove grease.

The end of the canning season is a good time to have the pressure gauge tested. Don't wait until it's time to do next year's canning. The gauge can be removed and returned to the factory or it may be tested with a maximum thermometer.

When the cooker and all its parts are thoroughly clean and dry, store them in a safe place. Crumple newspapers and put inside the kettle to absorb moisture and odors. Wrap the cover in paper to keep dust out of the gauge and valve and to protect the edges of the cover. Invert the cover on the kettle—never store it with the cover right side up. Be sure to put the pressure cooker where it won't be bumped or banged, and remember

RECIPES

No butter to make hard sauce? Try another kind of sauce for a pleasant change.

Elder Sauce
1 pt. sweet elder
2 tablespoons butter
2 cups brown sugar
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons cornstarch
Mix elder, butter and sugar and let come to a boil. Add cornstarch, dissolved in small amount of cold water. Cook mixture until thickened, stirring constantly.

Hot Fruit Sauce
4 tablespoons butter
1 lb. dark brown sugar
2 lemons, juice and rind
2/3 cup grape juice
2 whole eggs
Place ingredients in upper part of double boiler, heat with rotary heater over boiling water about 5 minutes or until it thickens. Serve hot with pudding or fruit cake.

Foamy Sauce
1/2 cup butter or substitute
1 egg
1 cup confectioner's sugar
2 tablespoons hot water
1 teaspoon vanilla
Cream butter and sugar, add well beaten egg and water. Heat until thickened and add vanilla.

Hulmeville Ladies Aid Nominates Its Officers

HULMEVILLE, Pa., March 2.—The Ladies' Aid Society of Ne-shaminy Methodist Church conducted a business meeting on Tuesday evening at the residence of Mrs. Linfred Benner, Middletown Township, with 26 members in attendance. Mrs. Uwellan Miller was the presiding officer; Mrs. Harry Claus conducted the devotional period; and Mrs. John Browning had charge of the social hour. Two new members were welcomed, Mrs. Emma Scamett, of Middletown Township; and Mrs. G. Taylor, of Main street. Nomination of officers was in order, with election taking place at the next meeting. "Secret Aid Sisters" were identified, and new ones chosen for the ensuing year. A "white elephant" sale is being arranged for the next meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. Samuel K. Faust, at which time Mrs. Ashbel Buckman will be a co-hostess. Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Benner and Mrs. E. D. Adler.

Today's Quiet Moment

(By the Rev. James R. Gaffey, Pastor)

Bristol Presbyterian Church

O God, the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, we come to Thee in humility this day, seeking a revelation of Thy Son into our hearts, that we might see Him as divine, that we might know Him not only as a great man and a moral teacher, but as the only means of salvation for a sinful world. Lead us to the place of acceptance of Him as the King of our Lives and the Master of our destiny. May we hear his voice calling us to lives of service and consecration, that His Kingdom might be advanced by the activity of Thy Spirit in our lives. Through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

fine singing voice but refuses to sing in pictures. He wants people to forget that he ever made his living singing.

A comparative newcomer to Hollywood—he walked into the Paramount studios last Fall, asked for an acting job and got it—he is featured in his second picture, "Government Girl." Olivia de Havilland and Director Dudley Nichols agreed that he was the perfect man to play
Edi Browne, the dollar-a-year man.

RICE'S SHOOTING IN SECOND HALF WINS FOR ROHM & HAAS

Rice Tosses Four Field Goals Which Swung The Victory

FINAL SCORE IS 27 TO 20

Chemical Mixers Missed Many Shots During First Part of Game

Fine shooting by Boscail Rice in the second half gave Rohm and Haas another triumph in the Burlington-Bristol League last night as the chemical mixers beat the Mt. Holly Eagles 27-20, in a tough tussle, at Maple Beach.

Rice tabbed four field goals in the second half which was enough to swing the tide of the game. At the end of the first half, the Eagles were trailing by the close score of 15-12. The quartet of fielders gave Rice a total of five for the night which gave him scoring honors. The first half of the tilt saw the Maple Beach aggregation miss continually with only Johnny Dougherty slicing the nets. Johnny made three field goals to score 6 of the 15 points. While this was going on, Klein and Allen, of the visitors, had tallied all their team's 12 points. Both added two points each in the second half to score 16 of their club's 20 points.

Sunday afternoon, Rohm and Haas will play an all-star team from the Trenton Metropolitan League. In the preliminary game, the Rohm and Haas girls' sextet meets the Top Road Club, of the Trenton Girls' League.

peace-time ability to war value.

The primary course to make a swimmer of a fighting man, has only eight elements—floating, breast stroke, side stroke, back stroke, submersion and underwater swimming, treading water, jumping and diving. These are safety skills, and if instruction must cease here—as war movements often necessitate—at least the man has a better chance of survival.

With A. B. Co. of swimming master, the trainee assumes the role of a fighter, navigating in full uniform and with rifle and pack. He soon finds that his pack floats for thirty minutes or so and that his uniform has little weight in water. He learns that his duffle bag, his pants or his shirt can buoy him up if he blows air into them. A man who can get out of his clothing in the water also can remove a parachute harness or unlock a safety belt if he comes down in water—a fact the Air Force does not overlook.

A soldier must be able to carry his rifle when he swims a stream. Swimming with one arm, he can keep it high and dry with the other, ready for action. The picture of a fighting swimmer, wearing a uniform, helmet and pack, with his rifle thrust out of the water, tells the story of America's amphibious army.

chute harness or unlock a safety belt if he comes down in water—a fact the Air Force does not overlook.

A soldier must be able to carry his rifle when he swims a stream. Swimming with one arm, he can keep it high and dry with the other, ready for action. The picture of a fighting swimmer, wearing a uniform, helmet and pack, with his rifle thrust out of the water, tells the story of America's amphibious army.
